

Prairie-Inspired Artists Featured at March 9 Symposium

by Brad Guhr, Education Coordinator

Kansas is fortunate to have within its boundaries some of the most expansive tracts of tallgrass prairie in the world and, more than any other place, can lay claim to the prairie as its iconic landscape. Prairie shapes the ecology and biology of our native Kansas wildlife. It permeates our natural and cultural history giving us a sense of place, and it is foundational to our ranching and agricultural economy.

The prairie identity is also richly represented in the visual arts. Talented Kansas artists are embracing the prairie and enriching the lives of people through their art in a variety of forms. This symposium will showcase brief presentations from artists representing a diversity of media as they share images, processes, stories and inspirations that expand the beauty of their work. Works of art will be on display and for sale. Come help us celebrate this connection between the visual arts and the prairie.

The day (Saturday, March 9) will begin at 8:30 a.m. with registration and a continental breakfast, followed by a welcome and introduction at 9 a.m.

The morning's presenters include Paul Friesen, primitive pit-fired pottery; Gail Lutsch, printmaking; Matthew Richter, painting; Jim Griggs, photography; Bill McBride, sculpture; Conrad Snider, ceramics; and Stephen Perry, printmaking.

After lunch, presentations will continue with Mark Feiden, photography; Terry Corbett, ceramics; Steve Murillo, sculpture; Lorna Harder, botanical illustration; and Bob Regier, printmaking.

Other highlights of the day will include a pit-firing demonstration by Paul Friesen, clay art displays by Hanna Eastin, painting demonstrations by Cher Heller-Olson, Joe Loganbill, and Matthew Richter, and the opportunity to purchase artwork.

Volunteer Vignette:

Tuesdays at the Arboretum

It is safe to say that our organization could not succeed without our dedicated volunteers. In 2012, our volunteers contributed over 2,000 hours of valuable service to help us accomplish the work of the arboretum. We encourage volunteers to use their skills and interests to help in our valuable work. Volunteering is a great way to support our mission, as you share your experiences about this prairie garden with others, learn about plants, meet new people and serve our visitors.

"Tuesdays at the Arboretum" are now scheduled from March 5 through June 25. Come at 9 a.m. each Tuesday, work until noon, and we will provide a lunch for you as a THANK YOU for your service. There will be a variety of service opportunities, from grounds work to cleaning in the facilities to data entry and record keeping. There will be something for everyone. If you are interested in helping, please contact the arboretum no later than the Monday prior to your work day so we can include you in the lunch head count.

Come and enjoy fellowship, good work, and a beautiful place to be!

Prairie Gardening at Schools -Calling All K-12 Teachers!

Earth Partnership for Schools (EPS) in Kansas will be starting its 7th year at Dyck Arboretum of the Plains this June providing high quality educational programming about the prairie and natural and cultural history of the Kansas Plains.

The EPS 40-hour Summer Institute (June 3-7, 2013) will train teachers to restore a native habitat garden with students on school grounds. While focusing on ecology, the EPS curriculum also incorporates the subjects of mathematics, history, science, social studies, language arts, art, and music. EPS offers teachers training, substantial support, a well-developed curriculum that corresponds to state standards, and expertise to create a native habitat garden with students on school grounds.

Institute attendees receive:

- three hours of graduate credit (optional)
- an extensive, easy-to-use curriculum
- professional, on-site consultation by Arboretum staff
- ongoing curriculum development support
- leadership for a prairie field trip
- school-wide in-service opportunity

The EPS Program is made possible with support from Cargill Inc., K.T. Wiedeman Foundation, the Kansas Health Foundation, and Kansas Native Plant Society.

Native Landscaping Class – Creating A Sense of Place

by Scott Vogt, Executive Director/Horticulturist

A coneflower in bloom is beautiful. The way native grasses sway with just the gentlest breeze captivates the imagination. A monarch sipping nectar from a Butterfly Milkweed is mesmerizing. A vista of the Flint Hills in spring is unique to our part of the world.

The resiliency of the prairie is inspirational. The character of native plants and how they have survived for thousands of years provides us with a sense of place, so when you plant with natives, the result is more than a beautiful landscape.

Join Scott Vogt as he takes you through the process of planning, designing, installing and maintaining a native landscape. Come prepared with a scale drawing of your landscaping site. Attendees will receive an additional 5% discount at our 2013 spring plant sale to purchase the plants from their design. Cost is $15/person, $12/members. Come either Tuesday, March 26 (6:30-8 p.m.) or Saturday, April 13 at 9-10:30 a.m. Call the arboretum for reservations at 620-327-8127, or email arboretum@hesston. edu.

What to Plant When Water is Restricted?

By Scott Vogt, Executive Director/Horticulturist

If the well runs dry, we can't drink. If water is restricted, plants will suffer. Reservoirs are low and the Equus Beds Aquifer is shrinking but we continue to need water.

What happens when cities restrict water usage? What can we do to conserve water? What do homeowners and businesses do with the investments they have made in their landscapes?

These questions are not easy to solve, but choosing plants that require less water can be part of the answer. We can't continue to plant water -thirsty plants. Here are some of my favorite plants, available at our spring plant sale, for water-conscious gardeners:

1 Agastache 'Bolero' is a new long-blooming Hummingbird Mint with vivid rose-purple flower spikes from mid-summer into fall. Great for attracting pollinators to the landscape. They love sun and will flourish in spite of the heat.

2 Amsonia hubrichtii is one of the most under-used perennials at our plant sales. It provides three seasons of interest starting with blue star-like blooms in spring atop stems of narrow, dark, green leaves. It reaches 2-3 feet tall and 2-3 feet wide. In the fall, the entire plant turns a nice butter-yellow.

3 Grasses should be used more in the landscape. Try new forms of little bluestem 'Blue Heaven' or 'Standing Ovation'. They are upright, reach 3-4 feet, and turn burgundy red in the fall.

4 You can't go wrong with Butterfly Milkweed. The bright orange flowers make this the most recognizable wildflower on the prairie. It loves full sun and flourishes in dry conditions.

5 'Full Moon' Coreopsis is one of my favorite new plants. It blooms from May through October with huge 3" diameter flowers in shades of canary yellow. It can be grown in full sun or partial shade.

6 'Mercury Rising' Coreopsis is a truly hardy, red Coreopsis. The velvetywine, red blooms keep coming all summer on plants that have a mounded habit. Plant them in full sun or partial shade.

7 Coneflowers should be in every native landscape. Choose Echinacea pallida for the long narrow drooping pink ray petals or (8) Echinacea paradoxa for the long, drooping, yellow ray petals. Each of these coneflowers can grow 3 feet tall and blooms in May and June. Give them plenty of sun and a medium to dry soil. Dark seed heads provide great off-season texture.

9 There are many great rose varieties to try, and I have had success with a rose called 'Home Run'. It has brick red flowers from May–October on plants that reach 3 feet tall and 3 feet wide. The foliage is disease-resistant, too.

10 If you need a vertical plant for the landscape, Panicum 'Northwind' is great. It is stiffly upright with blue-green foliage that develops airy panicles in the fall. Mature height is 4-5 feet.

11 This tame Ironweed, Vernonia 'Iron Butterflies' has narrow foliage topped with violet flowers in late summer. It is less than 2 feet tall and very resilient.

12 A great spring-blooming wildflower is Penstemon 'Dark Towers'. The tubular blooms are whitish-pink and attract many different pollinators. The purple-red foliage adds interest throughout the year. Plant them with Missouri Evening Primrose (13) for an attractive spring combination.

Try these compact asters for late season bloom. Aster KICKIN 'Lavender' (14), 'Lilac Blue' (15), and 'Pink Chiffon' (16) bloom from September into October. They each form bushy mounds 18-24 inches wide. Another excellent fall -blooming plant is the goldenrod Solidago 'Little Lemon' (17).

18 Silphium terebinthinaceum has nice foliage and flowers with large leaves up to 2 feet long and a tall spike of yellow flowers in summer.

Larger pictures and detailed descriptions along with companion plants can be viewed on our Facebook page and Website.

a Cut and Paste Landscape

By Scott Vogt, Executive Director/Horticulturist

Designing a new garden can be difficult. It takes time and inspiration to land on a design that beautifies your space. If you have seen a design that you like, note the appearance of the mature plants including size, form, and bloom times. For year-round interest, have plants that are coming into bloom and going out of bloom throughout the year. Consider plant combinations you like from the arboretum gardens and use them as a starting point to make your own design statement. The design below can be used as a model for your full-sun garden. The ultimate goal is plantings that are dynamic, aesthetically pleasing, and sustainable.

Please bring your ideas and questions to the upcoming Dyck Arboretum plant sale or attend one of the landscaping classes. At the sales or classes, staff, master gardeners, and volunteer gardeners will help you find the plants you want and advise you on plant combinations. We want you to be successful and help you choose the best plants to create your own sustainable landscape, to establish inviting habitats for birds and pollinators, and to reduce your water and chemical needs in the process.

For larger native or reconstructed prairies, we can also assess your land for exotic species management or woody tree control (cost: $50). Prescribed burning services to help landowners develop an action plan for prescribed burning and assistance with the burn are also available Cost: starting at $300 and may be more depending on the size of the property. For more information call (620) 327-8127.

The Dying Weeping Willow: Icon of the Dyck Arboretum

by Janelle Flory Schrock, Office Manager

For most visitors of the Dyck Arboretum, the great willow on the north bank of the pond is an integral part of our landscape. It has been a favorite spot for picnics and playing by the pond, for proposals and wedding ceremonies. The meadow surrounding its trunk is a great place for kids to fly kites and run around.

Planted early in the life of the arboretum, it has stood alone in the meadow, weathering wind and ice and snow for 30 years. Arboretum co-founder, Evie Dyck used to sit on the grassy knoll directly to the north of it, because it was her favorite view of the landscape.

Arboretum Executive Director and Horticulturist Scott Vogt recalls times when children would grab handfuls of the willow branches and braid them, or use them to swing out over the pond, sometimes at risk of getting wet.

Several years ago, multiple branches of the willow were broken in a severe ice storm, leaving it vulnerable to disease and further damage. Although Scott worked to shape the tree again, it has continued to deteriorate.

Now, with a fungus moving up the tree, and the latest damaging wind storm taking out another large limb, it is finally time for the iconic tree to be removed and replaced by a new tree.

The arboretum staff invites visitors and members to share any special memories of the great willow via email, Facebook or letter, which will be compiled and preserved.

"I like trees because they seem more resigned to the way they have to live than other things do. I feel as if this tree knows everything I ever think of when I sit here. When I come back to it, I never have to remind it of anything; I begin just where I left off."

- Willa Cather, "O Pioneers!"
